

FORTUNE

500 BEST PLACES TO WORK FOR COLLEGE GRADS

9. WPROMOTE

"There are so many things I love about Wpromote, but the two that stick out the most to me are the training and personal development. As soon as I started my internship, they provided the training I needed to succeed. Soon after, I was asked to extend my internship while I finished school. Unbeknownst to me, I was being trained to become the next account manager for the team. They saw the value in me very early on and dedicated the resources to develop my skills not only in social media, but also in client services."

"Wpromote has developed an environment for employees to thrive in—and it's more than the ping-pong table, yoga, masseuse, and Fine Wine Fridays. The mantra of 'Making Mondays Suck Less' makes collaboration fun and lets the creativity flow. What really drives the culture is the people. Every person here is passionate about their work and has a constant thirst to learn more. Which is why we love to embrace innovation, run experiments, and produce thought leadership content. We work hard—and we play hard too, getting together regularly for company and non-company sponsored events."

"Our pet friendly office always has a puppy or two running around, which always puts a smile on my face. Our work from anywhere policy gives me the flexibility I want as a young adult. Half-day Fridays on holiday weekends and every other Friday during the summer provide the extra time needed to reset."

- Employee: Trevor King
- Job title: Senior Manager, Social Media
- Start Date: March 2013
- School and Graduation Year: California State University Long Beach, May 2014

Read the Great Place to Work review.

Company Info

Industry	Advertising & Marketing
Sector	-
Year founded	2001
HQ location	El Segundo, Calif.
Type of org	Private
of work sites	3
U.S. employees	200
Global employees	200
Web address	www.wpromote.com

Hiring/Staffing

% New jobs added (past 12 mo)	34%
% New hires that were recent grads	35%